

At the Busy Corner Friday—Therefore Remnants.

Tomorrow the tag ends and the short lengths and the mill pieces climb up into the chair and rule the store. We couldn't get along very well without this once-a-week event. It acts as an exhaust pipe. It clears away the remains of the early-week business. For in such an enterprise as this great store a single day's accumulation of short lengths is something enormous. Then, too, there's another feature—perhaps strongly and certainly distinctively associated with this store—our regular remnants. They're wonders of quality and pricing. They come straight from the mills—and for forty years their journey has been direct to us. You get the choicest fabrics as soon as they appear. You pay mere fractions of shelf goods prices. Tomorrow's leaders are as usual extraordinary.

- Remnants of 40-in. all-wool flannel—soft and as silky as woollens can be—loomed in good shades of pink, blue and cream. Some pieces of fine cream Bedford cord in with the same lot. If you bought the stuff down stairs the price would be 40c. 29c
- Remnants of Black Cashmere—wool a 1 1/2 yd up and exactly a yard wide. Worth 12 1/2c. 12 1/2c
- Remnants of all sorts of Novelty Dress Goods. Nothing skimpier in these fabrics. They're all double width. Worth from 12 1/2c. to 5 1/4c. Pick of them at 5 1/4c
- Remnants of the best cottons in the world—they're all here. New York Mills, Wamsutter, Fruit of the Loom and Lonsdale Cambric. All exactly 36-inch wide and in good useful lengths. No time to say what they're worth. The price is omnipotent. 3 1/2c
- Remnants of good white Shaker Flannel. The same goods that are selling over our own counters at 33c to 50c. 33c
- Remnants of All-wool, red twill flannel. Medium. In 12 1/2c. Its nature and worth just twice.
- Remnants of a good sort of white wool flannel—splendid width. Good and wide and worth 15c. 15c
- Remnants of Merriam's Shirting Prints. 2 1/2c
- Remnants of Simpson's Mournings. 2 1/2c
- Remnants of 12 1/2c. Fancy Cretons. 8 1/4c
- Remnants of 12 1/2c. 31-inch Black Satene. 6 1/2c

My! How Washington's women have swarmed our Lining Dept. all this week. The greatest of all events—our sale of a neighbor's stock—drew 'em there, and the hugest bargains, outbalanced by the minimized prices, worked them into a buying frenzy that has never been seen in this part of the land. Thousands of short pieces are left behind—so here's to clear 'em out.

- Remnants of fine Silasias and soft-finish Percales, in fast black and colors. Worth 10c and 12 1/2c. Our price 4 1/2c
- Remnants of yard wide Rustle Taffeta Lining in black and colors. Worth from 7c to 12 1/2c off the piece. 4 1/2c
- Remnants of Linen Canvas Striped and Fancy Linings and Percales. Worth 12 1/2c to 20c off the piece. 7 1/2c

The people living in the vicinity of the Bell colored school, on First Street, between B and C southwest, have entered complaint against stone-throwing, which is done by some of the school boys at the noon hour. The habit has been indulged in for some time and there have been several narrow escapes from serious injury.

THINGS THEATRICAL.

Opie Read, the clever American novelist, whose exploits reach from "The Tear in the Cup" to "The Juckling," and Frank Pixley, a Chicago newspaper man, who is responsible for some of the brightest syndicate matter the country has had in some time, have written what promises to be an excellent play in Tim Murphy's latest effort, "The Carpenters." Mr. Murphy presented the piece nearly a month ago in Toledo, and it scored such a hit as is seldom recorded in these days of blasé audiences and factious critics. The offering is said to be a gem in many ways, and in it the star should have no difficulty in achieving and holding a position of rare prominence in the theatrical world. Play players come next week to the Columbia.

A young man named Smith—remarkable name—is said to present the most remarkable dual characterization ever seen in "A Brace of Partridges," which will be done next week at the Lafayette. The parts are much alike in texture and appearance, but, of course, some differences are necessary, and these Mr. Smith is supposed to supply in a manner that fairly disconcerts the audience. The same sort—"The Prisoner of Zenda," "The Corsican Brothers" and "The Brand of Cain" included. Not only is there given in the double role a small change in make-up, but Mr. Smith has, according to his photographs, dressed so that a perceptible increase in height is added to one of the people he impersonates. The work should prove entertaining and interesting.

Henry Clay Barnard, William MacDonald, Jessie Bartlett Davis, Helen Beaton, George Frothingham and many other favorites of the Bostonians, will be seen Monday night at the National, when that organization begins its local engagement in "The Serenade." This delightful opera will run all the week with the double bill of "The Serenade" and "The Prisoner of Zenda." Saturday evenings, when will be sung "Robin Hood." The Bostonians are always assured of large and enthusiastic audiences here, and the sale of seats, which opened this morning, presages more than usual success this season.

William H. West's minstrels, with Ezra Kendal and Carroll Johnson in the company, are underlined for next week at the Academy. Mr. West is a host in himself and with such good help as he has secured for this season an attractive and up-to-date performance is assured.

The show opens with a musical first part that is said to eclipse anything of the kind that has ever been attempted in modern minstrelsy and the specialties which follow are all good. The spectacular finale introduced many new features for which the company carries its own scenery.

"Have You Seen Smith?" the latest effort of Scott Marble, comes next week to the Grand in the hands of what is described as an excellent company. Many people of considerable prominence are included in the cast announced, while the several pretty girls are said to have a beneficial effect upon the sale of seats in the first three rows of the orchestra. The box office of the Grand opened this morning for the engagement.

Manager Griefs has provided another excellent bill for the coming week at the Bijou. Among the attractions is the Biograph. The machine used has been at Keith's New York Theater for the past year. Adeline Rostoff is also under engagement and her clear soprano voice should be heard to excellent advantage. Diametrically opposite to Miss Rostoff, by way of contrast, comes Emma Carus, the possessor of a contralto that can almost be designated as phenomenal. Thomas and Quinn, the cleverest comic duo; Matthews and Harris, in a brand-new sketch; Magician Florence Golden, who is considered the greatest of all palmerists; Harry and the same round Mr. Huff, of Philadelphia, will be matched against Mr. Wilkins, of Washington. These four will all go good golfers, and the matches will be contested all the way, as the winners will be in the "finals."

Despite the bad weather a number of enthusiastic golfers were on the course keeping their "hands in," and they seemed to enjoy their struggle against the elements. The weather proved too bad, however, for Dr. Compton, of Washington, who failed to put in an appearance for his special match with Mr. Huff, of Philadelphia, considerably to the disappointment of a number who were on hand to witness the game, and apparently to Mr. Huff's chagrin also.

Today promises to be again an active day in the tourney. There is a half dozen matches to be played off, each for the ladies' and the men's cups.

Cannot Grant the Request.
The District Commissioners have written to Charles W. Handy informing him that it is impossible to grant the request recently made by him on behalf of the president and board of directors of Gonzaga College asking that the college be exempted from the improvements which it is intended shall be made on the street on which the institution is situated. The Commissioners state that it is impracticable to pave the sidewalk on K Street, between North Capitol and First Streets, without at the same time paving the portion adjacent to the property of the college.

Funeral of Mrs. Emma Eshteman.
The funeral services over the remains of the late Mrs. Emma L. Eshteman took place this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Calvary Baptist Church. Rev. Dr. Samuel H. Greene officiated. The remains were placed in the family vault in the Congressional Cemetery. The pallbearers were Messrs. Edwin Hay, Charles Fisher, T. T. Keller, W. A. Morsell, James G. Hodges and Dr. William Hodges.

Sturgeon's Body to Be Taken Home.
The body of Mate George N. Sturgeon, of the schooner Frank Cassidy, who was fatally assaulted by the cook of the boat and died on his way to this city, remains at the morgue. His people have been communicated with at their home in Exmore, Northampton County, Va., and they have signified their intention of taking the body home. No further particulars of the murder were learned today.

Three Doctors in Consultation.

(From Benjamin Franklin.)
"When you are sick, what you like best is to be chosen for a medicine in the first place; what experience tells you is best, to be chosen in the second place; what reason (i. e., Theory) says is best to be chosen in the last place. But if you can get Dr. Inclination, Dr. Experience and Dr. Reason to hold a consultation together, they will give you the best advice that can be taken."

When you have a bad cold Dr. Inclination would recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy because it is pleasant and safe to take. Dr. Experience would recommend it because it never fails to effect a speedy and permanent cure. Dr. Reason would recommend it because it is prepared on scientific principles, and acts on nature's plan in relieving the lungs, opening the secretions and restoring the system to a natural and healthy condition. For sale by Henry Evans, wholesale and retail druggists, 938 F Street northwest, and Connecticut Avenue and B Street northwest, and 1428 Maryland Avenue northeast.
